As the City’s Parks & Recreation Department readies to celebrate its Golden Anniversary in 2020, the department is positioned to fulfill its vision of providing meaningful experiences through quality parks, recreation facilities and programs. Thanks to the 2018 Parks & Recreation Comprehensive Plan, the department’s work is guided by a series of goals and strategies that are reflective of the community’s needs. Programming
Cultural Arts
• Completed the Arts & Culture Master Plan (see page 4)
As a result of resident feedback, a key 2018 Parks & Recreation Comprehensive Plan recommendation is for the City to revisit the issue of inadequate indoor community gathering space. In July of 2019, City Council established the Community Center Feasibility Task Force (CCFTF) to lead this process. Early on, the Task Force determined they should secure the assistance of a consultant team experienced in conducting studies of this nature.

Over the fall months, the process of identifying a consultant was led by a Selection Subcommittee of the Task Force. By mid-November, a team led by Williams Architects—with subconsultants OHM Advisors and PROS Consulting—emerged as the preferred consultant. The full Task Force agreed with the subcommittee and unanimously voted to recommend to City Council that the City enter into contract with Williams Architects to conduct the feasibility study in partnership with the CCFTF. After hearing a report from Task Force Co-Chairs Margie Pizzuti and Nick Lashutka on November 18, Council approved the recommendation on November 25.

The reasoning behind the recommendation included:
• The Williams Architects proposal detailed extensive community engagement activities throughout the study process and a clear understanding of the value placed on obtaining resident input;
• Representatives of Williams Architects and OHM Advisors are local to Central Ohio, which will be beneficial to the process;
• The team has previously conducted work in Upper Arlington and already has a good understanding of the community and its expectations—for example Williams Architects assisted PROS Consulting with the 2018 Parks & Recreation Comprehensive Plan, and OHM Advisors led the design process for the new Tremont Pool and Playground at Northam Park and is currently spearheading the Lane Avenue Planning Study;
• Collectively, the team has more experience conducting community center studies;
• The proposal integrated a statistically valid survey early in the process, and emphasized the importance of obtaining objective data that is reflective of the broader community;
• The proposal broke pricing down by project components and divided the work into two phases, with the findings of the first phase framed to help determine the validity of a second phase. Additionally, the proposal was the most cost effective.

A meeting with representatives from Williams Architects and the CCFTF was held mid December, to discuss the timeline for the workplan, establish meeting schedules, and to review plans for engaging with the community on this important issue.

Details of the work of the Task Force can be found at uacommunitycenter.com. We encourage you to attend Task Force meetings, and to share your thoughts and ideas with us.
Over the past year, The City’s Cultural Arts Division underwent a master planning process with the goal of developing a clear vision and implementation strategies for public art and cultural programming. That process is now complete, with the resulting Arts and Culture Master Plan presented to and accepted by City Council in December.

In the fall of 2018, the City contracted with Designing Local to guide the development of the plan. The yearlong process began with a general study of the history and current state of the arts in UA, including an exploration of the characteristics that define the community. The project also included an extensive community input process that generated over 1,000 one-on-one touch points—from surveys, to focus group meetings and pop-up events. From this feedback, it was clear that the community is supportive of the programs offered by the division and for continued investment in the arts.

The Arts and Culture Master Plan establishes a series of short-, mid- and long-term implementation strategies focused on enhancing existing programming, strengthening operations, and raising awareness of the arts and culture opportunities in UA. It provides clarity on the purpose, roles and responsibilities of the Cultural Arts Commission, and sets forth an inspirational guiding framework for exploring expanded public art opportunities in the community.

Staff in Cultural Arts and members of the Cultural Arts Commission are eager to begin implementation in 2020, so watch for enhancements to upcoming gallery exhibits, the Music in the Parks summer series, and of course our community favorite—the Labor Day Arts Festival.

Lane II Progress

I love living in UA and feel fortunate to be raising my two boys in a supportive community that affords them many opportunities. As they grow, and then launch into their adult lives, I want them to have already gained an understanding and openness to other cultures and differing global perspectives. I want them to be kind, compassionate and respectful young men who lead by example.

On joining the City, I was excited to hear about the community relations assessment process that has been underway in 2019 because it speaks to my hopes for my family and my strong belief that communities are better when they welcome and embrace everyone, regardless of their differences.

This issue was brought to the City’s attention thanks to the work of Equal UA, and the community relations assessment process that followed reflects a desire of many to advance UA as a place that is welcoming, cohesive and inclusive.

The process began with two workshops and an online survey to identify areas that require our attention, and to identify steps we can take to make sure all citizens feel connected, supported and valued. In the fall, Council formed a temporary Community Relations Assessment Committee to further study the findings and recommendations that emerged from the workshops, and to develop a framework for the next steps.

I was eager to be part of this committee. I’m energized by what we accomplished and what lays ahead.

In early December, we presented a summary of the committee’s work and our recommendation to City Council. We recommended that Council form a Community Relations Committee. Under the proposed framework for the committee, Council will appoint seven members who reflect a mix of representation, such as age, gender, ethnicity and tenure as a resident. Numerous entities have also been identified that will be invited to participate as affiliated groups, such as Equal UA, The Stand Project, Leadership UA, Asian American Community Services, all schools in our community, the Library, faith-based organizations, Realtors, and civic groups.

Our group developed a “UA” definition of community relations, as well as a statement of purpose, mission and vision statements for the new committee.

We also developed a series of goals that fall under the categories of:
- Welcome | Connect | Belong
- Educate | Inform | Enlighten
- Gather | Share | Celebrate

Our next step is to schedule a number of gatherings early in the New Year to share the proposed framework with community members, see what we may have missed, and to seek input on what priorities the new committee should focus on once formed.

My thanks to my fellow members of the temporary committee, which included Michele Hoyle, Jim Lynch and Sue Ralph from City Council, Equal UA representatives Nic Fortkamp, Marianne Mitchell and Michelle Montgomery, Schools representative Tricia Fellinger, Library representative Jenn Faure, Police Chief Steve Farmer and Community Affairs Director Emma Speight. We had some great discussions and generated many ideas that will serve us well in the months ahead. Thanks also to Floyd Akins for his work on the spring workshops.

If you are interested in participating in one of the upcoming meetings, let us know. Likewise, if you are interested in serving on the Community Relations Committee, we want to hear from you. Contact Emma Speight in my office, at 614-583-5045 or espeight@uaoh.net.

2020 Marks Change in Council Members
The November 5 election brought with it some changes in City Council, effective in the New Year. Three seats were on the ballot, with Sue Ralph deciding not to run for her first full term. Council incumbent and current Vice President, Brendan King, was successful in his bid for a second term. Michaela Burriss and John Kulewicz were selected by voters for their first terms. Incumbent Carolyn Casper was not reelected.

The 2020-21 City Council is scheduled to convene for the first time on Monday, January 13 at 6 pm, at which time, the three successful candidates will be sworn into office for their 2020-23 terms. Additionally, Council as a Whole will select who from its ranks will serve as President and Vice President. These two positions also serve as Mayor and Vice Mayor for ceremonial duties.

Business will also include Council Member assignments to various entities, including:

- Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission
- Upper Arlington Commission on Aging
- Upper Arlington Leadership Program
- Community Improvement Corporation
- 3 appointments to City Council’s Rules Review Subcommittee
- 3 appointments to City Council’s Financial Policies Subcommittee

Council meetings resume their typical schedule the following week, with Council Conference Sessions on the first and third Mondays of the month, and City Council Meetings on the second and fourth Mondays. Please check the City’s event calendar at upperarlingtonoh.gov in advance of meetings, in the event of any schedule adjustments or cancellations. If you have questions, contact the City Clerk’s Office, at 614-583-5030.

2020 Budget
While the City adopts a two-year budget, the Administration and Council always undertake a mid-budget review to ensure that revenue and expenditure projections are on track, and to identify any new items that should be included in the second year.

The original 2020 Consolidated Fund revenue projection of $60.7 million has been increased to a revised projection of $61.8 million. This is primarily due to income tax continuing to exceed expectations as a result of stable general economic conditions and a proactive economic development program.

The City’s Operating Budget for 2020 is $48.7 million, a 6.4% increase from the $45.7 million originally adopted. This is primarily due to the following factors:

- Renovation plans for the Police Division and former dispatching space, window replacements at the Municipal Services Center, and a roof replacement at the old Fire Station on Coach Road.
- Four additional full-time positions: a second planner position in Community Development, as an interim director position is made permanent; two parks maintenance specialist positions to address park and athletic field maintenance needs identified by the 2018 Parks & Recreation Comprehensive Plan; an engineering technician/inspector position to help realize savings by performing project inspection work in-house as much as possible.

The 2020 Supplemental Budget—which was approved by Council at its December 9 meeting—can be found at upperarlingtonoh.gov, under the Finance Department section.

If you have any questions, please contact Finance Director Brent Lewis, at 614-583-5291, or blewis@uaoh.net.
Ready for a Change?

The City is committed to taking a proactive approach in its efforts to communicate with residents on important issues and to seek your feedback. But we also recognize that our newsletters and emails can get lost among the many communications materials vying for your attention. So, starting in the New Year, we are trying something a little different. And a little more obvious!

"Ready for a Change?" signs will be appearing at specific sites as certain proposed development projects, park improvements or significant road construction projects are up for a review. Typically, these signs will be placed in the public right-of-way or in our parks two weeks in advance of a scheduled public meeting or hearing, or as a heads up to residents that a study process is in its beginning stages. Examples of projects that would trigger the placement of a Ready for a Change? sign are:

- Community Development - Development Plans, Plat Amendments, Major Subdivision proposals, Major Site Plans, Appeals (commercial), Rezonings, Variances (commercial)
- Engineering - Design of major CIP projects, traffic studies
- Parks & Recreation - Playground replacements, shelter replacements, changes in park configurations, new park facilities

What Happens When a Ready for a Change? Sign Appears?

If you see a Ready for a Change? sign and you want to know more, sign inserts above and below the main sign will let you know if a public meeting has been scheduled. You will also find a website address—upperarlingtonoh.gov/change—where you will find a brief overview and/or a link to another webpage created specifically for the proposed project.

If you have any questions about this new approach or would like details on what’s being considered when a sign appears, please contact the City Manager’s Office, at 614-583-5040.

Lane Avenue Planning Study
As the City’s most rapidly evolving commercial district, the Lane Avenue Planning Study will help the City better understand the impacts of future growth and create a framework to guide this growth in a way that best benefits the community. The study process began in August 2019 and is expected to conclude in 2020. It has been expanded to include three phases of citizen engagement, providing opportunities for residents to learn about the significance of the business district for Upper Arlington’s future and provide input on what they believe should be priority considerations.

The first round of community outreach and information gathering for the study was completed in the fall. It included an open house, two pop-up meetings and an online survey. In December, residents were invited to a public meeting for an update on the findings to date and how they will be used to shape a vision for the corridor’s streetscape and appearance, as well as insight on the next steps in the study process.

Full details of the Lane Avenue Planning Study can be found at upperarlingtonoh.gov, under the Community Projects section. We encourage residents to become involved in this important review process to help develop a roadmap that will further the corridor’s appeal as a major hub for community activity, while preserving the peaceful nature of surrounding neighborhoods.
Parks & Recreation Sponsorship Opportunities

Each year, the City’s Parks & Recreation Department hosts a series of popular, family-friendly special events that attract thousands of attendees and support UA’s strong sense of community. For 2020, the department invites area businesses and service organizations to elevate your presence in Upper Arlington by becoming a community event sponsor.

A range of sponsorship levels are available that provide extensive exposure, not just on the day of the event being sponsored, but in the weeks and months leading up to event day.

Sponsorship opportunities for 2020 include the Labor Day Arts Festival, the department’s four seasonal events (Spring Fling, Summer Celebration, Fall Fest, Winter Festival), and the Music in the Parks concert series.

New for 2020, sponsors can also support the department’s Play UA Scholarship Fund, which covers 50% of the costs for programs, Senior Center fitness passes, and seasonal aquatics and tennis passes for Upper Arlington families who are financially challenged and might not otherwise be able to participate. The City will match dollar for dollar all funds donated to the Play UA Scholarship Fund, and your business will be recognized as a supporter of this important program.

Build your brand as a proactive supporter of community programming by becoming a community event sponsor. For information, call Jodi Osborne, at 614-583-5312 or josborne@uaoh.net.

Snow Removal
Public Works 614-583-5350
The City provides exceptional snow removal services, with the aim of returning normal driving conditions to all City streets within 24 hours of the end of a snowstorm. Priority is placed in the following order:

Watch Out for Joggers

The City periodically hears from resident joggers about unsafe driving practices by motorists, such as failing to come to a complete stop at stop signs, or pulling out when a pedestrian is in an intersection. We urge motorists to drive safely at all times—put away the cell phones or other distractions and follow the rules of the road. During the winter months, joggers often have no choice but to be out during dusk or dark, so please be extra cautious. We also urge joggers to be mindful of their appearance—wear something reflective and consider wearing a headlamp. Run against traffic so that you can see vehicles as they approach. If you are listening to music, only wear one headphone so that you can hear what’s going on around you.

Help Keep Sidewalks Clear This Winter

Navigating the community on foot can be hazardous in the winter, especially for the elderly or those with disabilities. Help keep sidewalks in front of your property or business clear of snow and ice. If you have elderly neighbors, take a few extra moments to help clear their sidewalks too.

Fire Hydrants in Winter

If you find yourself clearing snow and ice from your driveway and sidewalk this winter and you have a fire hydrant in front of your property, please take a little extra time to keep hydrants free of snow and ice.

Hundreds of families and community members gathered to celebrate what it means to be a Golden Bear during the district’s fifth annual State of the Schools in November.

Along with several impressive student performances, Superintendent Paul Imhoff provided the audience with updates on the district’s new strategic plan, the progress of the current construction projects, continued enrollment growth and future financial planning.

Imhoff shared videos highlighting the work behind the strategic plan’s two goal areas - whole learning and student and staff well-being. The whole learning goal integrates rigorous academic content with the deeper learning skills students need to succeed in life — communication, critical thinking, creativity and collaboration. The student and staff well-being goal defines belonging and balance as elements that are critical to fostering a safe and inclusive learning environment where students and staff can thrive.

“In UA, all means all,” said Imhoff. “I’m incredibly proud to serve in a district where we are being intentional about the well-being of our students and staff, and a key part of that is focusing on diversity, equity and inclusion in our schools.”

Imhoff shared updates on the ongoing school construction projects, which are all on budget and on schedule. He also provided an update on the district’s enrollment. After 10 years of rapid growth, student numbers are expected to grow at an even faster rate during the next 10 years.

Growing enrollment and state funding that has stayed relatively flat for decades both contribute to the need for a new operating levy request in November 2020, Imhoff explained.

“School districts like us have to come back to the ballot every few years for a brand new, continuing operating levy,” said Imhoff. “There is no other way for a district to deal with inflation because all of school levies bring in a fixed amount of money. So as property values go up, tax rates go down, and schools get the same amount of money.”

Imhoff concluded his remarks with the presentation of the third annual Dr. Robert Arkin Service and Leadership Award in honor of Robin Comfort and Joanie Dugger, who both passed away in 2019.

Dugger was a longtime school volunteer and executive director of the Upper Arlington Education Foundation and the Upper Arlington Alumni Association.

“Joanie was a key force in so many amazing programs and events in our community,” said Imhoff, “but wasn’t one to take credit for any of these things – she always enjoyed stepping out of the spotlight and letting others have a moment to shine.”

Comfort was also a longtime school volunteer who served for 12 years on the Board of Education.

“Robin was a driving force behind the district’s diversity, equity and inclusion work. She was also key in the facilities master planning process, providing the leadership along with her Board of Education colleagues that brought thousands of community voices into the process,” recounted Imhoff.

Service-Learning Projects Make Many Hearts Sing

Learning new skills and meeting community needs through service-learning is a year-long commitment for our students and our staff—a tradition that stretches back decades in our school district.

Service learning is an important part of whole learning, a priority in the new strategic plan for Upper Arlington Schools. It is intentionally the first action word in our vision—uniquely accomplished students prepared to serve, lead and succeed. It also speaks to all of our values: start with heart, strength in team and contagious drive.

Service learning gives students an opportunity to meet a real community need that connects back to what they’re learning in the classroom. They gain an understanding about things that are bigger than themselves and are able to take away a lifelong lesson of the importance of serving others.

We have so many incredible service-learning projects unfolding in our schools all the time. I’ll share an example that recently brought together students from across many grade levels.

The story begins last school year at Tremont Elementary School, when first-grade teacher Pam Bergen’s students did an in-depth service-learning project with the Alzheimer’s Association and a local memory care center. Her students gained understanding of memory loss and empathy for individuals experiencing it. The students sent the senior citizens living at the memory care center crafts and artwork last school year.

Fast forward to this fall, when Pam reunited her class from last year to go to meet the senior citizens that they had been providing “whooshes of joy.” Upper Arlington High School teacher Amanda Fountain and some of her broadcast students came along to create a video documenting the trip but also ended up connecting with the younger students and learning from everyone involved.

The Tremont students had a great visit with their senior citizen friends. They shared jokes and delivered fidget blankets. The blankets brought students from two more schools—Hastings and Jones middle schools—into the project.

It was an incredible experience for everyone involved. Amanda summed it by saying: “Pam Bergen is AMAZING! The depth of learning, compassion, and contributions that her students made through their exploration of Alzheimer’s is life changing. When (students’) hearts and minds are aligned through quality service learning, my heart sings.”

We have many, many more incredible examples of service-learning projects like this happening in our schools. It truly does make our hearts sing to see our students of all ages learning to care for and about others.

Construction is progressing very quickly on the five projects underway in the first phase of the facilities master plan. The aerial photo, taken in late November, shows progress on the new Upper Arlington High School. All of the projects remain on schedule and on budget. ### Alumni Spotlight

Henry Wu, Upper Arlington High School Class of 2006 and 2020 Rhodes Scholar

Upper Arlington High School graduate Henry Wu was recently named a 2020 Rhodes Scholar. He currently is a senior at The Ohio State University, where he is an honors student pursuing a double major in philosophy and political science. Only thirty-two Rhodes scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding seniors and recent graduates across the United States.

Notable achievements at UA High School

In my junior year at Upper Arlington, I won an award at The Ohio Academy of Science State Science Fair with my friend Nikolas Grotewold (Class of 2016), whom I have known since seventh grade. Our project focused on identifying a particular gene that helps protect Arabidopsis plants from pathogens.

College / career experiences

I joined the Upper Arlington Speech and Debate team in high school. I loved the process of engaging with arguments, and I began my time at Ohio State as a philosophy major.

But my experiences at Ohio State have also taught me the importance of community service. I co-founded an organization called Enlighten that works to address the issue of human trafficking in central Ohio. In these past few years, Enlighten has reached approximately 2,000 individuals through our outreach and awareness events, receiving Ohio State’s award for Excellence in Community Service Programming.

My academic research seeks to clarify our theoretical concepts of freedom. Next fall, I’ll be pursuing a master’s degree at Oxford University. After that, I intend to attend law school to pursue a career focusing on international law and human rights.

How did UA Schools prepare you for success?

Although my current research interests have nothing to do with plant genetics, I am grateful for the opportunities at Upper Arlington that have allowed me to broaden my understanding of the world – and to think critically and creatively.

Legacy Campaign Seeks $1 Million To Reach Goal

The Upper Arlington Board of Education and Legacy Steering Committee would like to thank the many generous individuals, families and businesses that have supported the Legacy Campaign! This private fundraising effort seeks to raise $7.5 million to complete and enhance the scope of the Upper Arlington Schools facilities master plan. We are excited to share that these projects remain on budget and on schedule!

Since January 2019, the Legacy Campaign has raised $6.5 million in donations ranging from $20 to $1 million. We truly believe Every Donor, Every Dollar Contributes to Success! Legacy is seeking to raise $1 million to reach the $7.5 million goal by early spring 2020 - it’s not too late to donate. Please consider joining Legacy donors by contributing and making a mark - leave your legacy upon our new foundations for the next century!

In an effort to capture this historic moment, the Legacy Campaign will print an “Upper Arlington Schools Legacy Memoir” book to commemorate Upper Arlington’s largest philanthropic endeavor and to thank all those who made it happen!

We hope you will consider joining the Legacy family! To donate or for more information, please visit www.uaschools.org/legacycampaign.
State of the Schools

The fifth-annual State of the Schools featured several student performances and dozens of displays highlighting what’s happening in all of our schools. The displays in the Learning Fair offered a closer look at the commitments in the district’s new strategic plan - the two goal areas of whole learning and student and staff well-being, with the foundation of continuous improvement. Thank you to all the students, staff and community members who participated and attended this event! For a video of highlights from the Learning Fair, please visit our website, www.uaschools.org/StateoftheSchools.aspx.

Students from the Community School at Upper Arlington High School shared their work.

Guests of all ages signed a construction beam for the new high school.

Adviser Gordon Gavin and students in the Jones Middle School Taekwondo Club showed their skills.

A Tremont Elementary School table featured a synchronized robot dance.

The Hastings Middle School 8th Grade Choir performed during the Learning Fair.

High School students and teachers shared more about the third annual UA Idea Day and Ambassadors of Change.
Students of all ages took time during the month of November to honor veterans in their families and our community. Students at Wickliffe Progressive Elementary School completed a service-learning project by hosting a schoolwide town hall meeting honoring veterans including Bill Waldron, whom Wickliffe sponsored to travel on the 100th Honor Flight of the Columbus chapter. Eighth grade students at Hastings and Jones middle schools also spent time with veterans for their long-standing Veterans Day celebrations.

The Upper Arlington High School girls water polo team brought home its 17th state championship after defeating the Cincinnati Mavericks in the state final in October.

Approximately 70 Upper Arlington High School computer science students spent time with elementary and middle school students for the second annual districtwide Hour of Code on December 5.
In November, I presented to the Board of Education a five-year financial forecast for the district covering three years of actual data and five years of anticipated revenues and expenditures. This is a legally required document that is presented to the board for approval and then filed with the state of Ohio.

The new five-year forecast reflects a major financial impact that we’ve been talking about for the past several years. Districtwide, enrollment has been steadily increasing for a decade, and projections indicate that even more significant growth is ahead of us over the next 10 years.

Even though our enrollment has been growing, our state funding has remained relatively flat for more than 20 years. And, even as property values increase in Upper Arlington, our school property tax rates decrease to ensure the district is getting the same flat amount. That is due to a state law known as House Bill 920 that essentially forces districts like ours to return to the voters every three to four years to keep up with inflation. There are some exceptions that allow for a small amount of revenue growth, but overall, districts must ask for an additional tax levy just to keep up with inflation.

The new financial forecast provides a clear view of the anticipated impact of those factors combined with our growing student population. As we have been saying since 2015, we will be returning to voters with an operating levy in November of 2020. In the meantime, we will continue to seek out efficiencies to keep our costs as low as possible while maintaining our high level of educational programming.

I invite you to review the new five-year forecast at www.uaschools.org/treasurer.aspx. If you have any questions, please contact me at treasurer@uaschools.org.

Main Library Hosts Picture Book Exhibit

In January and February, the UA Main Library will host a traveling exhibit of 12 panels devoted to the art of African-American children’s picture books. The exhibit, Telling a People’s Story, emphasizes the strength of illustrations as a visual narrative of the African-American experience.

Organized by Miami University Art Museum through a grant from the Martha Holden Jennings Foundation, the exhibit is a view into the cultural, historical and social makeup of the African-American cultural identity, and brings African-American picture book authors and illustrators into the spotlight.

The themes and time periods referenced in the exhibit include African origins, middle passage, slavery, emancipation, reconstruction, Harlem Renaissance, segregation and the civil rights movement. Additionally, it highlights historical figures in politics, music, sports, art and entertainment.

The exhibit will be on display in the atrium.

Author Visit—Oge Mora

As a complement to the exhibit, the Main Library welcomes children’s author and illustrator Oge Mora, on February 15. She’ll give a presentation and Q&A session at 1 pm, and lead a collage workshop for grades K-5 at 3 pm. Registration opens February 1.

Oge is a Columbus native whose first book Thank You, Omu! received accolades including a Caldecott honor and the Coretta Scott King/John Steptoe New Talent Award. It was named a New York Times Notable Book.

EBooks and eAudiobooks with No Waiting

The Library circulates over 13,000 eBooks and eAudiobooks each month. While we’ve offered these formats since 2004, we’ve recently added two options for free instant access eBooks and eAudiobooks with no waiting.

Lucky Day

Lucky Day titles are a collection within our Digital Downloads Collaboration. Powered by industry leader OverDrive, Lucky Day is a selection of the most-requested and in-demand books without a holds list. Any eBook that you find in the Lucky Day collection is available for immediate checkout to your PC, Mac or mobile device.

Keep your Lucky Day title for seven days, and check out up to two titles at a time on your card.

RBdigital

Another instant option is RBdigital, which provides instant access to more than 30,000 eAudiobooks on your phone or tablet. As with Lucky Day, there are no holds and no waiting periods. Discover everything from the classics to recent bestsellers in a wide range of genres. All it takes to get started is your library card, and you can sign up for a free account at any time.

RBdigital eAudiobooks have a 21-day checkout period by default, but you can choose a shorter period if you wish. You may check out up to 50 titles at a time.

Visit http://media.ualibrary.org for more information on these and other digital downloads at your library. You can also get one-on-one help from a Media Services staff member by making an appointment by visiting our website at http://techhelp.ualibrary.org or by calling 614-486-9621 ext. 226.

Fifty Things That Aren’t My Fault
By Cathy Guisewite
Fans of the Cathy comic strip will be delighted to know that Cathy’s singular voice is back. Cathy has expanded on her love of shoes, M&Ms and her dog with essays about her life as a single parent of a college-aged daughter, as well as making frequent trips to Florida to check on her elderly parents. She writes with humor and heart about the difficulties of being in the sandwich generation and prefers the term “panini generation,” as she feels pressed on both sides. Fortunately, this pressure never diminishes her optimistic attitude and should appeal to anyone else who is doing the same balancing act of caretaking and letting go.

— Kris Stahler, Miller Park

Cari Mora
By Thomas Harris
In Thomas Harris’ sixth novel, the author departs from the Hannibal Lecter genre. With his usual cast of interesting characters, Harris creates an action-packed novel. In a Miami Beach house once owned by drug kingpin Pablo Escobar, two criminal organizations are finding ingenious ways to acquire gold that Escobar has buried under the house. At the same time avoiding the steadfast ICE and FBI agents who are in constant pursuit. A quick and exciting read!

— Scott Potter, Adult Services

Don’t Call Me Bear
By Aaron Blabey
Warren the koala is frustrated that all the other animals insist on calling him a bear. Throughout the book he provides funny, interesting facts about his species as he tries to set the record straight to no avail. While the other animals might not get it, this lighthearted picture book brings the point home in an engaging way. Perfect for little ones who like animal facts with a dash of fun.

— Tracie Steele, Youth Services

Tuesday Mooney Talks to Ghosts
By Kate Racculia
Tuesday is perfectly fine with her introverted lifestyle. She has a decent job working in fundraising for a big hospital, a friend she can meet out at the local dive bar for drinks, and an angsty teen neighbor she tutors once a week. When eccentric billionaire Vincent Pryce drops dead at one of her hospital fundraisers, he leaves behind a city-wide treasure hunt inspired by Edgar Allan Poe. Tuesday takes the bait and finds herself in the midst of an adventure filled with romance, murder, handsome strangers, secret codes and, of course, an abundance of pop culture references. Set in Boston, this humorous novel is suited for fans of The Westing Game and Ready Player One.

— Jen Downing, Adult Services

The Hunting Party
By Lucy Foley
A group of friends from Oxford, now in their thirties, gather every year to celebrate the New Year together. They’ve chosen an isolated estate in the Scottish Highlands, which seems like the perfect getaway until a blizzard hits and one of them is found dead. The remaining friends are left stranded with the knowledge that the killer must be one of them.
