There’s no other way to say it, 2020 is proving to be a year unlike any other. As we have navigated the challenges presented to us—from the COVID-19 pandemic to the anti-racism national unrest—we have seen many examples of UA’s spirit at its finest. Residents have stepped up to support each other in many wonderful ways (see some highlights on page 4), and City Staff have been quick to accommodate unexpected service needs.

COVID-19 Service Updates

While City operations aren’t quite back to normal, the business of the City is getting accomplished and residents are receiving the services they need—albeit in a slightly different format at times. The Municipal Services Center is open for limited onsite customer service support during regular office hours, however we do still encourage residents to conduct business with us electronically whenever possible. If an onsite visit is required, we ask that you contact us in advance to request an appointment. And if you do visit any of our facilities, please observe our safety requirements, such as wearing a facemask and observing social distancing.

Full details can be found on our COVID-19 Service Updates page, at upperarlingtonoh.gov.

Summer Programming

Our team in the Parks & Recreation Department should be proud of all they have accomplished in recent weeks. Faced with many unknowns as the state began rolling out its Responsible RestartOhio guidelines, they watched for daily updates from the Governor’s Office. As other communities made the difficult decision to cancel their pool season and summer camps, our team developed detailed contingency plans on how to safely provide these services should it be possible. It was.

On June 8, a modified Summer Camp opened for the season, providing working families facing limited childcare options with a safe and engaging place for their children over the summer vacation. With strict limits on child/camp leader ratios, and a need for more facilities to keep groups separated, this year’s camp is serving 58 children instead of 400+. While finalizing plans, the department reached out to families previously registered to gauge their interest level and need for summer camp, anticipating the use of a lottery system to select campers. As families learned that other parents had a real need for camp in order to work, several voluntarily withdrew, indicating that they had other options for their children’s care and freeing up space for those who needed it most.

On June 12, Tremont Pool opened its doors, followed by Devon Pool on June 15. Both pools are operating on a modified schedule. This includes limits on attendance, two-hour time blocks for open swim sessions that must be purchased online in advance, as well as comprehensive social distancing.

The format may be different, but there’s still lots of fun to be had at this year’s Summer Camp.
involved, and cleaning requirements.

Thanks to a generous donation to the Upper Arlington Community Foundation’s Recreation Scholarship Fund, discounts are available for pool passes (while funds last). Visit parks.uaoh.net to learn more about the schedule and to purchase tickets.

Other Parks & Recreation related updates include:

- The Northam Tennis Courts opened at the end of May, offering season passes and a modified schedule, with advance scheduling of courts.
- Park restrooms are open, with an increased cleaning schedule.
- Hard tennis courts, pickleball courts and sand volleyball courts are open.
- Ball diamonds are open.
- Playgrounds are open.
- Basketball and hockey courts are open.
- The use of park shelters and rentals at the Amelita Mirolo Barn begin opening up in July.
- Per Ohio Department of Health orders, as of press time, the UA Senior Center remains closed.

Full details and updates can be found on our COVID-19 Service Updates page, at upperarlingtonoh.gov.

Anti-Racism Demonstrations

In recent weeks, many community members have been stepping forward to participate in or organize events and activities to protest systemic racism, just as hundreds of communities across the nation have responded to the George Floyd tragedy and other acts of violence against African Americans.

The City has developed some guidelines and best practices for events held in the front plaza of the Municipal Services Center, as well as for mobile demonstrations. These guidelines are designed to welcome participants while providing a safe environment for everyone. As a courtesy, event planners are asked to provide the City with advance notice and to be considerate of regular City services and operations. Based on information provided in advance about the gathering, our Public Service Department may assign staff to provide traffic control equipment, and our Police Division may assign one or more officers to assist with traffic and other relevant safety issues.

Then There’s the Weather

The saying “It never rains but it pours” has never felt truer or more ironic. Along with everything else this spring, Central Ohio experienced two significant rainstorms that caused flooding around the region and in Upper Arlington. While UA was relatively lucky compared to other communities, many homeowners experienced sanitary sewer flooding—where stormwater (rainfall) leaks into the sanitary sewers (the system that removes wastewater from homes), overwheels them and causes water to back up into homes through floor drains.

Sanitary sewer backups are a common problem in Central Ohio, with many communities working on solutions to prevent what is known as inflow and infiltration. The City’s Sustainable Sewer Solutions program was launched in 2017 to address our issues, and has been making good progress in the years since. However, the recent flooding issues prompted the Public Service Department to take a closer look, working with impacted residents in an effort identify the causes and develop solutions.

If you have experienced sanitary sewer flooding, please send an email to engineering@uaoh.net and provide any history on sanitary sewer backups in your home, including the dates and source of the water (floor drain, sink, toilet, etc.).

Last but not least, on June 10 the region experienced a severe storm that damaged many trees in our community. If you still have fallen tree limbs on your property, the Solid Waste Services page of our website details guidelines for using the free, weekly yard waste collection program or dropping items off at the regional composting facility on Roberts Road.
Random—and Not so Random—Acts of Kindness

We know we are just touching the surface, but here are some examples of our community members caught in the act of supporting each other in fun and creative ways during these trying times. If you know of other stories to share, we want to hear from you!

Thanks to Paula Koontz Gilmour and her team of volunteers, the UA Caravan Club took to the streets more than 150 times, celebrating birthdays, graduations, honoring our healthcare workers and in recognition of any other special occasion brought to their attention.

Michelle Salsberry, aka The Masked Crusader, turned her facemask-making skills into a fundraiser, in turn surprising some of UA’s essential workers with a special thank you note containing cash.

At the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, the City’s efforts to reach out to our older adults was a success thanks to several volunteers who assisted with calls. One such volunteer, Joy Barney, also helped share details of the impromptu program with the region by speaking with Channel 10’s Karina Nova about our efforts.

Markel Davis is on a mission to “bridge the gap,” and his efforts to support—and feed—local law enforcement officers have not gone unnoticed. School Resource Officer Jon Rice stopped by recently to thank Markel. To learn more, look for his @markelbridgingthegap page on Facebook.
Racism exists and harms our country, our state, our region and Upper Arlington. When we see the deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor and Ahmaud Arbery, it reminds us that our African American brothers and sisters in America have fears that we, as white men, don’t have. When any member of our American family feels afraid to be in America – when they are afraid to do the simplest of things that the rest of us take for granted – we should all be afraid.

One message won’t erase our historic and current racism. Changing laws alone won’t fix it. But that doesn’t mean that we don’t acknowledge it and work to overcome it. We will all die, but that doesn’t mean that we don’t go to the doctor when we are hurt. We look for ways to heal. There are things that we can do to help heal the damage that racism is doing in our communities.

We want to ask every resident and every employee at the City to think carefully about how we treat one another— it has to become more personal. When you see a neighbor, see them and treat them as family. Treat them with the love, respect and warmth that we all want from those who are closest to us. When you meet visitors to our city, treat them as if they were guests in your home. Welcome them, help to ensure that they are comfortable, and treated as they wish to be treated.

Since the COVID-19 crisis, we see UA doing this every day. We look each other in the eye and smile more. We say hello more. We wave more. We check in on each other. We help more. Generally speaking, we are better to each other. We are doing all of this at a time where we are rightfully a little afraid of what dangers we might pose to each other. When you interact with someone who comes from a different racial group than you, be as purposeful in how you treat that person as you are when you make the special effort to greet someone across social distance.

Much of our national pain comes because of violence against African Americans at the hands of police. From the first time that we met, we have had frank and painful conversations about these issues. We and our officers work very hard to recognize the biases that are inherently in everyone. We continue to work hard to overcome them. Our officers do that through training and by making sure they are accountable for their actions.

We ask you to remember that our officers are deeply hurt by these needless tragedies – the acts of a few officers tarnish the reputation and pride of many exceptional safety professionals who are willing to risk their own safety to protect us.

Everyone is paying more attention to how police officers do their jobs. In UA, we are comfortable with and welcome that. If you are a party to or witness an interaction between our officers and any member of the public where you worry that bias was involved, we want to hear from you. You can reach out to either of us, or you can contact our DEI Officers, Emmanuel Boamah (614-425-3076) and Zachary Sorosiak (614-425-3111). We will look into the matter, learn from it, and adjust where it’s clear we can be better. And we will follow up with you to let you know what we learned.

We will be asking every UA employee to complete a lesson online about diversity, equity and inclusion. The course is voluntary, but we encourage all employees to participate. We are providing it for free to ensure that we have the broadest attendance possible. We will also begin to randomly survey our employees on DEI topics to see what further steps we can take. We want to thank the residents of UA for continuing to make this an amazing community for everyone. Whether it is how you operate as an individual or how you band together through groups like the UA Civic Association, the UA Community Foundation, our churches and faith communities, our service clubs, Equal UA or our schools, you show that we are striving for a community where everyone feels like they belong no matter what they look like or how they got here. Sometimes, the world makes that goal harder to achieve. We are UA, and we are up to the challenge.

If you have questions or concerns, please reach out by calling the Police Division’s non-emergency line at 614-459-2800 or send an email to city.police@uaoh.net.
Lane Avenue Planning Study Report

The Lane Avenue corridor is the City’s most rapidly evolving commercial district. This transformation has enhanced the area’s vibrancy and appeal, providing new dining, retail, housing and service options—including the community’s first hotel, with a second hotel nearing completion. As the area has changed, the City has implemented measures to address parking and traffic concerns, provide transitional buffers from the commercial district into adjoining residential neighborhoods, and to enhance pedestrian and bicycle access where possible.

With new developments already underway and on the horizon, combined with the pressures of a growing region, the Lane Avenue Planning Study was initiated in August of 2019 to help the City better understand the impacts of future growth and put in place a framework to guide this growth.

The consultant team led by OHM Advisors crafted an extensive study process that included:

- Three phases of citizen engagement—including public meetings, community pop up activities and online surveys—which provided opportunities for residents to learn about the significance of the business district for UA’s future and an opportunity to provide input on what they believe should be priority considerations.
- A detailed review of pertinent guiding documents, such as the Master Plan, Unified Development Ordinance, past studies, and survey data.
- Development of streetscape standards to enhance the district, with a focus on pedestrian activity, accessibility, outdoor dining, and opportunities for public art and public gathering spaces.
- Recommendations for modifying the City’s Planned Mixed-Use District regulations for the Lane Avenue district.
- A comprehensive traffic evaluation of Lane Avenue, from Riverside Drive to State Route 315, which included current and projected traffic counts and development of a phased approach to congestion mitigation and parking requirements.

OHM representatives and staff presented a summary of the process, findings and recommendations to City Council in June. Council is expected to revisit the study this fall to begin more detailed discussion and provide direction on specific implementation steps. This includes potential updates to the Lane Avenue Planned Mixed-Use District regulations.

The June presentations and draft report are available on the City’s website, under the Community Development | Community Projects section.

Community Relations Committee Update

Plans for forming the Community Relations Committee were revisited by Council in June, after a delay resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. At press time, legislation to form the Committee was scheduled for Council Action on June 22. After reopening the application process for a brief period, an interview and selection process is in its early stages, with hopes for the seven-member committee beginning its work by the fall.
Since 2014, a significant focus of the City’s 10-year Capital Improvement Program has been on street improvements. Tied to this, as residents increasingly indicate their desire for an expanded network of sidewalks and safe routes for bicyclists, the City’s focus on alternate modes of transportation is yielding positive results. Some recent or pending examples are detailed below.

Northam Park Shared-Use Path
The pathway along Northam Road at the south end of the park has recently been expanded from a four-foot sidewalk to an eight-foot shared-use path in order to better accommodate pedestrians, strollers and bicycles in a safe manner.

Mountview Road Improvements
The Mountview Road construction project—which is in full throes—is slated for street reconstruction, new curb and gutter, improvements to the storm sewer system, water main replacement and a new sidewalk on the west side of the street.

Fishinger Road Improvements
On the horizon for 2022-23, the Fishinger Road reconstruction project—running from Tremont Road west to Riverside Drive—will add another vital sidewalk and shared-use path connection to one of our community’s arterial streets.

Sidewalk Maintenance Program
While significant progress is being made to install new sidewalks, shared-use paths and dedicated bike lanes across the community, maintaining what we already have is also important. Now in its third year, the Sidewalk Maintenance Program provides for periodic inspections of existing sidewalks to determine if repairs or replacement work is needed to keep the network in good working order. Once the targeted zone for the year has been inspected, homeowners are notified of any necessary repair work that is their responsibility. They may choose to secure a private contractor themselves to complete the work or can have the City coordinate repairs within its annual contract and bill them for their portion of the costs.

For additional details on these projects, visit the Engineering section of our website, at upperarlingtonoh.gov.

UA Click2Fix
Visit the AppleApp or GooglePlay store and search UA Click2Fix to download our new smartphone reporting app. Residents can use the app to submit requests or notify the City of issues such as potholes, street-light outages, damaged street trees, etc. You can also view the construction update map and contact staff using the app’s Directory. Call Public Service at 614-583-5350 if you have any questions.
Golden Bear Redevelopment Update
On June 15, 2020, the Board of Zoning and Planning denied Golden Bear Development LLC’s request to redevelop the Golden Bear Shopping Center, located at Fishinger Road and Riverside Drive. The proposed Amended Final Development Plan was for a five-story building with 102 condominiums and ground floor retail/restaurant space. The previously approved version of the plan included second floor office space, but was replaced with additional residential units in this latest plan.

Ohio State Bank
A Final Development Plan has been submitted to the City for the renovation and expansion of an existing one-story building to house the Ohio State Bank, located at the northeast corner of Lane and Northwest Boulevard. The proposal is scheduled for review and action by the Board of Zoning and Planning on Monday, July 20. Projects details can be found at our Ready for a Change webpage, at upperarlingtonoh.gov/change.

Under-Speed/Golf Cart Vehicle Regulations
A popular trend in UA is the rental of golf carts for use over the Fourth of July holiday period. It sounds like a fun idea, but as this practice has grown, safety issues have increasingly been a concern for our Police and Fire divisions.

In 2019 City Council adopted Ordinance 41-2019, authorizing residents’ use of code-compliant, under-speed vehicles (USVs) year-round, and exempting non-compliant golf carts for a total of five days over the Fourth of July holiday.

USVs, including golf carts, are defined as three- or four-wheeled vehicles weighing under 3,000 pounds, that cannot exceed a speed of 20 mph.

The following requirements apply year-round and during the five-day exemption period:
- USVs can only be operated on streets with a speed limit of 25 mph or less
- USVs must be operated within State and UA vehicular laws.

The following are required year-round requirements and encouraged over the five-day exemption period:
- USVs should include adequate brakes, working brake lights, warning/turn signals, headlights and tail lights, a properly working steering mechanism, windshield, rearview mirror and street tires.
- Per UA requirements, seatbelts should be available for each designated seating position.

For year-round use, USV owners must have their vehicle inspected and approved for use on public streets by an authorized law enforcement agency (make sure you let them know of the City’s seatbelt requirement). The City’s Police Division can also perform these vehicle inspections. Call 614-583-5160 during regular office hours to ensure that an officer will be available.

Examples of safety/traffic violations that will be acted upon by police officers over the Fourth of July exemption period include, but are not limited to:
- Driving without a valid driver’s license or while under suspension
- Vehicular assault
- Reckless operation
- Traffic code violations that result in an accident
- Failure to obey traffic control devices
- Driving while under the influence
- Hanging outside the vehicle
- Violations of child restraint laws
- Underage drivers

With greater clarity on the laws and expectations for golf carts and other under-speed vehicles for the community—both year-round and over the Fourth of July holiday—we hope the community can enjoy the benefits of this alternate mode of transportation in a safe and responsible way.
Tree Pest Alert

European Lecanium Fruit Scale

A native pest that can cause damage to fruit and ornamental fruit trees is becoming more prevalent as a result of recent mild winters and the abundance of available host plants. The European Lecanium Fruit Scale can attack a variety of host trees, but they are most commonly found on fruit and ornamental fruit trees such as crabapple, cherry, serviceberry and pear.

Infested trees are late or slow to leaf out, and branches and foliage have a black sooty appearance. Trees that have been under attack for multiple years will exhibit tip dieback, dead branches and may die.

Scale insects can be difficult to manage. Spraying non selective contact insecticides is ineffective at penetrating the protective armor of the adult insect and can suppress natural predators and beneficial insects. If you choose to treat your trees or hire a contractor, please be thoughtful about treatments.

Because of the environment in which they exist—frequently exposed to exhaust fumes and winter street salt—street trees are particularly susceptible to the effects of an insect attack. Since treatment would be prohibitive from a cost perspective and could pose a health risk to pedestrians and pets, the City’s management approach is to remove trees that have died or experienced significant dieback. Whenever a street tree is removed, replacements are selected that are less prone to pests or disease.

Since the City monitors street trees on a three-year cycle, if you feel that a tree in front of your home is dead or dying, contact the Parks & Forestry Division, at parks@uaoh.net and a member of staff will conduct an evaluation to determine if it should be removed.

The division has created an informational brochure on this pest, available under the Parks & Forestry section of our website, at upperarlingtonoh.gov.

Yard Signs Reminder

Election season is not that far off and we can expect to see a drastic increase in political signs in UA in the weeks ahead. We are also seeing many other types of signs appearing in front yards, addressing causes that are important to residents.

Here are some friendly reminders about the placement of political or other types of yard signs:

- The City cannot and does not regulate language on political signs. Contact the Ohio Elections Commission (614-466-3205 or www.elc.oh.gov) to register a concern.
- The City can regulate the size and location of political signs and can only request that a sign be removed from private property if it is deteriorating or in the public right-of-way.

In either event, call Code Compliance, at 614-583-5073.

- Political signs on private property are themselves private property. Theft charges will be filed against anyone found to be taking such signs.
- The Police Division recommends that you place your name somewhere on your signs for tracking purposes, so they can be returned to their rightful owner if stolen and later recovered.

Please be mindful of how signage can affect the aesthetics of our neighborhoods, and be respectfully considerate of the differing opinions of your fellow neighbors.

Fireworks Safety

Since UA won’t be enjoying the traditional Fourth of July fireworks display this year, it might be tempting to purchase a few fireworks and sparklers for some fun at home.

The City’s Fire Division urges you to think again!

Annually, 13,000 people are injured, and seven people killed, on average, in fireworks accidents throughout the US. Additionally, thousands of fires are ignited causing extensive property loss. The vast majority of these incidents occur in the four-week span surrounding the Fourth. Of note, 99% of the injuries and deaths, and most of the fires are the result of consumer grade fireworks—not professional, public firework shows.

Sparklers, available for sale in Ohio, burn at 2,000 degrees—hot enough to melt many metals. They account for burn injuries and start many of the fires. The same can be said for firecrackers and bottle rockets. Sadly, these injuries and much of the property loss impact innocent bystanders.

The City recognizes these dangers and enacted laws prohibiting the sale, possession or use of consumer fireworks, including sparklers, bottle rockets, firecrackers and trick noisemakers. It is not the intent of the City to be heavy-handed in enforcement, but the City has and will continue to enforce them, especially when unsafe situations are witnessed by police.

As the Fourth of July approaches, be wise, be patient and above all, be safe.
Block Party Permits
CITY MANAGER’S OFFICE  614-583-5040
Please be advised that in light of the COVID-19 pandemic and for health and safety reasons, the City is not issuing Block Party Permits at this time. We appreciate your understanding and encourage all our residents to follow appropriate social distancing practices.

Peddling/Solicitation Permits
CITY MANAGER’S OFFICE  614-583-5040
Please be advised that in light of the COVID-19 pandemic and for health and safety reasons, the City is not issuing Solicitation Permits at this time. As a result, there should be no individuals or groups going door-to-door in Upper Arlington attempting to sell residents a good or service, or to solicit donations. If this occurs, please report the activity to our Police Division non-emergency number, at 614-459-2800.

Tree Damage
PARKS & FORESTRY                614-583-5340

Grass/Weed Control Guidelines
CODE COMPLIANCE  614-583-5070
The care and maintenance of property and landscaping benefits the entire community. City code specifies that grass must not exceed 10 inches in height and should be kept free of noxious weeds. Failure to comply will result in notice from the City to rectify the situation within five days, at which time the City will make arrangements to cut the grass/weeds at the owner’s expense.

As the UA High School Class of 2020 participated in their commencement parade, the City made sure the students knew we were thinking of them.

Debris from private trees is the responsibility of the property owner. However, the City may clear private debris from streets or sidewalks when expedient, or take action to abate immediate hazards even if privately owned trees are involved. Emergency and storm cleanup is prioritized using several criteria, and your patience is appreciated.

Residents can dispose of tree debris through the yard waste collection component of our Solid Waste Program or by taking items to the Regional Composting facility on Roberts Road. Visit the Solid Waste section of our website, at upperarlingtonoh.gov for details.

Semi-Annual Utility Bill
FINANCE  614-583-5280
The second of this year’s semi-annual utility invoices from the City are in the mail to UA households. These invoices include the Solid Waste fee, the Stormwater Utility fee, and in some cases a Neighborhood Lighting Utility fee. The deadline for payments is Friday, July 24.

The Stormwater Utility fee—a total of $45 for the year and now billed at $22.50 every six months—helps to defray the costs of maintaining our City’s storm drainage system.

The Solid Waste Service fees cover the costs for providing trash, recycling, bulk item and yard waste collection services.

Payment of the Utility Invoice is the responsibility of the property owner(s). Similar to property tax, the fees remain attached to the property.

You can pay your Annual Utility Bill online at upperarlingtonoh.gov, under the Resources | Utilities & Billing section.

Citizen Police Academy
POLICE  614-583-5340
If you have ever wondered how much fiction and how much reality plays into the various crime shows on TV, each fall the Police Division offers some insight for those residents selected to participate in the Citizen Police Academy. On Thursday evenings from September 10-November 19, up to 10 adults go behind the scenes for a hands-on learning experience of local law enforcement.

Topics covered include:
- Crime scene investigations
- Crime prevention tips
- Legal considerations and the laws of arrest
- Defensive tactics
- Firearms safety and training
- Patrol tactics and traffic stop practices
- Ride-along with a police officer

Academy graduates have the opportunity to become part of the Citizen Police Academy Alumni Association, providing volunteer support to various Police Division activities and helping to raise community awareness on safety issues.

The application deadline is Monday, July 27. Visit the Police Support Services section of our website, at upperarlingtonoh.gov for details.

Thanks to the Upper Arlington Community Foundation and the Field Sports Work Group, Automatic External Defibrillators (AEDs) are installed at all City parks that feature athletic fields.
After two months of distance teaching and learning, the 2019-2020 school year came to a close in ways no Upper Arlington Schools students, families or staff members would have expected when it began last August.

“This school year is one we’ll never forget,” said Superintendent Paul Imhoff, Ed.D. “While we would much rather have had our schools filled with the sounds of learning over the past two months, I am so proud of how our students, our families and our staff have risen to this challenge of reimagining how we educate the children of our community and how we maintain that sense of community we have within our schools.”

Students and teachers celebrated the end of the school year in unique and creative ways. There were virtual memory books, video-conferencing “air hugs” among classmates, yard signs celebrating students’ milestones and car parades — including a first-of-its-kind commencement parade celebrating the 430 graduates in the Upper Arlington High School Class of 2020.

“It really is incredible to see how our staff, families and community have rallied together to support our students and one another in countless ways,” Imhoff added. “This is an incredible example of our value of Strength in Team – we are better together and stronger together.”

Since the end of March, students and teachers had been engaging in distance teaching and learning in response to the governor’s orders to close schools amid the COVID-19 pandemic. When the school closure was extended through the end of the school year, it became clear that celebrating the accomplishments and milestones of the Class of 2020 would require a lot of outside-of-the-box thinking. That started with a feedback survey for the entire senior class, parent and student advisory groups, and a vast network of community members excited to find their own ways to honor the senior class.

“It’s kind of crazy that something that felt so guaranteed wasn’t guaranteed after all, but you know sometimes things don’t go as planned and obstacles come in the way,” said Brooke Yoakam, class president. “That’s when we become the best version of ourselves. And you can see that in the Class of 2020. With this, with these obstacles, we’ve been able to be very creative and innovative and make the best out of this situation.”

One of the high points of the creative, collaborative planning was a graduation day car parade through the heart of Upper Arlington that allowed Upper Arlington High School staff, family members, friends and community members to cheer for the seniors and their accomplishments.

“We’ve heard from so many families and seniors who said the experience really exceeded their expectations,” Principal Andrew Theado said. “We are so grateful to everyone who helped make this a safe and special send-off for our seniors — that includes our entire high school staff, Class of 2020 families and friends, the City of Upper Arlington, police and fire officials, the Upper

Family, Student, Staff Feedback at Heart of 2020-21 Planning Process

On behalf of our Board of Education and the leaders of our schools and district, I want to express our steadfast commitment to eliminating racism and promoting justice and equity. It is critically important that we continue this work in our schools as our nation engages in crucial discussions about racism and the systemic injustice that has created fear, pain and inequity for Black Americans for many generations. We want to express to you we are committed to moving forward with the vital diversity, equity and inclusion work that began in our schools several years ago.

We strive to ensure that all of our students feel a strong sense of belonging in our schools and are welcomed, respected, supported and celebrated. But we know there are times our schools have fallen short of that ideal.

We know there is a tremendous amount of work to be done to eliminate racism in our schools and support diversity, equity and inclusion. The Board of Education and district leaders look forward to sharing more with you in the coming weeks about our work going forward as we continue to implement this crucial piece of our strategic plan.

2020-2021 Planning Process
In Upper Arlington Schools, we have come to the end of a school year unlike any other. I am so proud of our staff and families for all they have done to challenge and support our students through distance teaching and learning.

As with many areas of our lives right now, we know that school in the fall will likely look different than school years of the past. In order to develop the best possible plan for our UA Schools community, our district has launched a three-phase rapid-design process to create a plan for the 2020-2021 school year.

We’re doing what we always do in UA – we are gathering as much feedback as possible from students, families and staff through multiple surveys and focus groups. The Board of Education is committed to hearing from every possible voice before making a final decision.

And, by mid-July, I plan to make a final recommendation to the Board of Education on a plan for the fall and the 2020-2021 school year that will fit within the guidelines provided by state leaders and health officials.

As of the writing of this column, we unfortunately do not have any answers to share yet, as the process is still unfolding. I can promise you that we will provide answers as soon as we can to our families, our staff and our community. Please watch our UA Schools social media accounts and visit our website, www.uaschools.org/2020-2021planningprocess.aspx, for updates and more information about this process.

As always, if you have any questions or thoughts related to our schools, please reach out by emailing superintendent@uaschools.org.

Arlington Civic Association and many more."

The car parade and a virtual graduation ceremony combined to honor the seniors on what would have been the morning of their commencement ceremony at the Schottenstein Center, but there’s more celebrating to come for the Class of 2020 and their families.

“Our senior survey also told us one thing loud and clear - in addition to all of the fun, alternative events that happened this spring, our students want to have a traditional, in-person graduation ceremony whenever it is safe to do so," Theado said. "We are absolutely committed to making this happen.”

In addition to the celebrations for the Class of 2020, the middle and elementary schools and their PTOs also found some wonderful ways to celebrate the milestone years for fifth and eighth grade students.

“I’m incredibly proud of the resilience all of our students, and especially these milestone classes, showed in these difficult times,” Imhoff said.

Imhoff Named President-Elect of National Association
Upper Arlington Schools Superintendent Paul Imhoff, Ed.D., has been elected as the 2020-2021 president-elect of AASA, The School Superintendents Association.

AASA is the premier organization for the nation's superintendents serving thousands of education leaders throughout the U.S.

“I am so proud to be a member of this organization, and I am humbled by being elected to serve as president-elect,” said Imhoff.

“The need for equitable access to a strong public education system has never been greater. As president-elect, I will have the opportunity to serve the leaders of our public schools as they strive to serve students and staff across our nation. Our membership understands the importance of developing, supporting and continuously improving schools that can keep that promise for every single child.”

Upper Arlington Schools Board of Education President Nancy Drees noted that this is an honor for the entire Upper Arlington community to have its superintendent leading a national organization. “We are so grateful for his leadership here in Upper Arlington, and we are excited to see the positive impact he will have on districts across the country,” Drees said of Imhoff.

Imhoff will begin his term on July 1.
Although end-of-year celebrations for the milestone classes of 2020 — graduating seniors, eighth grade and fifth grade — looked different than in years past, many people rallied together to creatively share traditions in a different way or come up with innovative new celebrations for these students. Here’s a look at how our students and staff celebrated the end of this unique school year!
The new addition to Barrington Elementary School will open for the fall of 2020. Renovation work will continue on existing interior spaces for a fall 2021 completion.

Over the past few months, construction has continued to progress on schedule and on budget. The governor’s office had deemed construction an essential business during the pandemic, and crews have continued to work on all five school sites here in UA while implementing additional health and safety precautions. In June, construction began on the final project in the first phase of the facilities master plan – the new Windermere Elementary School. The first three projects – the new Greensview and Wickliffe Progressive and the renovated Tremont elementary schools – are on schedule for completion by the start of the 2020-2021 school year. Look on our website, www.uaschools.org/facilities, for a timeline and final video walk-throughs of the three buildings that were decommissioned this spring – Windermere, Greensview and Wickliffe.

On the site of the new Upper Arlington High School, masonry work on the three-story academic area is well underway.

The new Greensview Elementary School will be completed by fall with a media center at the heart of the learning spaces.

The first floor renovation at Tremont Elementary School began earlier this year and is on schedule for a fall 2020 completion.

The interior learning spaces in the new Wickliffe Progressive Elementary School are progressing quickly for a fall 2020 opening.
The COVID-19 pandemic has brought about many financial hardships and uncertainties for our families, our community partners and our school district as well.

In May, our district received word of a funding cut from the state of Ohio for the 2019-2020 school year. Additional cuts in state funding for our schools are possible in the future.

Since we received this news, we have been working with the Board of Education to evaluate our budget and plan for our future financial needs. The difficult reality is that there are many unknowns — about the pandemic, its impact on the state and national economy, and the future changes to the operations of school districts. But, to be clear, our school district will be facing additional financial challenges.

As of the writing of this column, we are continuing to work with the Board of Education on developing a sensible financial plan for the future of our schools. As always, our commitment to providing a high quality of education to the students of Upper Arlington will be at the heart of this.

We will be sharing more information at www.uaschools.org. I encourage you to look for updates there, and in the next issue of our community UAiNSIGHT newsletter as well.

If you have any questions about our district’s finances, please feel free to visit my page on the website, www.uaschools.org/treasurer.aspx, or contact me at treasurer@uaschools.org.

Thanks to a partnership with the City of Upper Arlington, Board of Education meetings take place in the Council Chamber of the City’s Municipal Services Center, 3600 Tremont Road. In general, the meetings begin at 6 p.m. on the second Tuesday of each month. Some exceptions apply, and last-minute scheduling changes are possible. In the event that the COVID-19 pandemic necessitates the Board of Education conducting a regular meeting via video-conferencing, a live feed of the regular meeting will be available on the Upper Arlington Schools YouTube account. Please refer to www.uaschools.org for the most up-to-date information.

Board of Education Meetings:
- Tuesday, August 11, 6 pm – Council Chamber
- Tuesday, September 15, 6 pm – Council Chamber

COVID-19 is having a significant impact on everything we do, and it has taken its toll on all of the alumni celebrations around the July 4 holiday. The Upper Arlington Alumni Association (UAAA) has canceled its annual Alumni Open House at Upper Arlington High School, and classes have also canceled their reunions. The UAAA and these classes are planning to regroup next year for what will be the final open house at the current high school.

The UAAA invites all alumni to look for future opportunities on the website, www.bearalums.com.
2020 Cum Laude Awards

Membership in the Cum Laude Society is the highest academic recognition a high school student can achieve on a national level. The society was established in 1906 to recognize academic excellence, justice and honor. It was modeled after Phi Beta Kappa. The Upper Arlington chapter of the Cum Laude Society is supported by the Dr. Charles Wade Moulton Fund of the Upper Arlington Education Foundation. Congratulations to our 2020 scholars!

At Insight press time, our staff is preparing to welcome the public back into the Main Library for limited services. While many details need to be worked out, we anticipate opening our doors in early July. The Lane Road and Miller Park Libraries will remain closed. (See Director Beth Hatch’s column on page 21 for more information on temporary branch closures and our reduced active staff.) Our situation is always evolving, so be sure to check our website at www.ualibrary.org for the most up-to-date information.

When you return to the library, things will look and operate differently than before the closure. For everyone’s safety, we will limit the number of people in the building at the same time. We may be open reduced hours. Everyone will be required to wear a mask or facial covering, and maintain 6 feet of distance between other patrons and staff. We’ve installed Plexiglass barriers at our service desks.

You will be able to browse and check out items using our new touchless self-checkout stations. Please bring your library card, either the physical card or on our app, for the quickest experience. Computer workstations will be available by appointment, which can be arranged by calling (614) 486-9621.

You’ll notice that we’ve removed much of our furniture throughout the building as well as the toys in our youth department. We encourage you to find your materials, check out and exit. While we look forward to the time when we can again serve as a gathering place, for now we must focus on providing materials rather than areas to meet or lounge.

Drive up book drops will remain open during designated hours and we’ll continue quarantining returned items for at least 72 hours.

Curbside pickup will still be available for limited hours for patrons whose requested items are ready.

Certain services have been suspended. Outreach homebound delivery, live programs, passport appointments, one-on-one technology help, and meeting room reservations will not be available until further notice.

“We are eager to see everyone again,” said Assistant Director Kate Porter. “Though your library experience may be a little different, we made these changes with the goal of keep all of us as safe and healthy as possible.”

There’s still time for you to participate in the 2020 Summer Reading Club. Readers of all ages can “Imagine Your Story” through July 31.

In light of the times, we’ve simplified the program. Register at http://read.ualibrary.org. You only need to complete one form per household. Download a reading log from the site, or use one of your own. Simply mark each day you read. Those who read on 15 days from June 1-July 31 will earn a free book! Hang on to your calendar and bring it to the Main Library any time in August to receive your prize.

We’ll also have weekly challenges like quizzes, a scavenger hunt and other activities. Follow us on Facebook and Instagram (UAPublicLibrary) and check each Monday for that week’s challenge. By participating, you can earn chances in drawings for great gift cards. Winners will be drawn on August 1 and will be notified by email or phone.
The COVID-19 pandemic has affected the library, our staff, and our community in so many ways. In the history of the library, we have never had to close our doors for this length of time. It was heartbreaking though necessary to ensure safety for everyone.

The Library is adjusting to the new financial realities of the loss of revenue suffered by the state due to business closures, specifically the impact on the Public Library Fund (PLF). The PLF comprises 44% of the Library’s budget, and we’re estimated to lose more than 30% of that revenue.

We had to make very difficult decisions due to the economic changes brought on by COVID-19. First, we cut 30% out of the budgeted expenditures for library materials and more. However, with the expected loss more drastic cuts had to be made and unfortunately 70 employees were furloughed and full-time employees’ pay was reduced by 5-6.25%.

Due to these staff reductions and furloughs, the Miller Park and Lane Road Libraries will remain closed until further notice, and the Main Library’s hours have been reduced. Until revenue from the state is restored, the Library will need to continue these measures to make sure operations are stable and viable.

Despite the uncertainty of the financial future of the library and the threat of the COVID-19 virus, library staff are diligently working to serve you. You can chat live with an online library staff member via our website, reserve items online or over the phone, and pick them up outside our entrance once you receive a notice they are ready. The book drops are open at the Main Library with returned materials quarantined for 72 hours. We’re taking appointments for computer workstation sessions.

We’re also planning to open the Main Library for limited services in early July. See page 20 or our website at www.ualibrary.org for more information.

We are anxious to return furloughed staff to the library, open the branches, and restore hours. We plan to do this as soon as we can financially and safely. We hope to see you at the library soon!

Beth Hatch

Imagination Library Project Provides Free Books to Kids

The Dolly Parton Imagination Library is open to all children in Franklin County thanks to the Ohio Governor’s Imagination Library initiative. The project provides a book a month for all kids age 0-5. The books are mailed to the child’s home and are for them to keep. They can start building their early literacy skills and engage in reading with family/care givers to prepare them for school.

Dolly’s program began in 1995 and is now both a national and international program. Ohio’s first counties came on board in 2005, and the Governor Mike DeWine’s goal is to have all 88 counties participate. In July 2019, the Ohio legislature included $5 million over the course of the next two years to jump start the project.

The UA Library is happy to answer questions about the program or help kids enroll, at https://ohioimaginationlibrary.com/enroll.
A Long Petal of the Sea
By Isabel Allende, translated by Nick Caistor and Amanda Hopkinson
This new epic novel by the author of The House of the Spirits follows the lives of Victor Dalmau and Roser Bruguera from small Spanish towns and the trenches of the Spanish Civil War, to concentration camps in France and into exile in Chile and Venezuela. Through the author's engaging and masterful storytelling, and superior translation, we are treated to a complex but accessible story of displacement and exile informed by an overwhelming desire to belong and establish roots. More than anything, through decades of Roser and Victor's lives, the epic reinforces the triumph of love and human spirit over misfortune and tragedy, as we learn that home is closer than one might think.

Three Hours in Paris
By Cara Black
This thriller is set in Paris during WWII with assassin Kate Rees, an American markswoman, working for the British Secret Service. She is dropped into France with a mission to assassinate Adolf Hitler. Black’s pace is fast but plausible, with enough tension and twists, plus a great feel for Paris during the Nazi occupation. A good historical thriller for folks who like a hard boiled and well-paced book.

Olive, Again
By Elizabeth Strout
Olive, Again is the sequel to the Pulitzer Prize winning book, Olive Kitteridge. Olive is a deeply flawed and complex character, but a glimpse at a painful childhood memory makes her more sympathetic. She is coming out of a difficult period in life and has gained a bit more self-awareness and vulnerability. Though she still has her cringeworthy moments, this older Olive is more likable and finds some much-deserved happiness.

The Mystery Of Three Quarters
By Sophie Hannah
Available as an eBook in our Digital Downloads collection
This book features Hercule Poirot, a character that was made famous in the books by Agatha Christie. First there is a murder... or was there? Four people were sent letters accusing them of the murder of Barnabas Pandy. All of these letters were signed in the name Hercule Poirot, but the great detective did not send them. Some of the recipients did not even know who Barnabas Pandy was, and neither did Poirot. Needless to say, Poirot felt the need to look into the situation to find out if Mr Pandy was indeed murdered and who would have signed his name to the letters.

Branches Closed
We’ve suffered a significant loss of income due to a reduction in state funding. As a result, we must keep Lane Road and Miller Park Libraries closed until further notice. Full-time staff from these branches have been moved to the Main Library, which is open but providing limited services. See Director Beth Hatch’s column on page 21.
